fresh air and good food do help many persons suffering from Tuberculosis. But to be really honest, it must be admitted that the disease is seldom more than "arrested." Something more is needed.

Eckman's Alternative is a medicine made for the cure of Tuberculosis. It has cured this disease again and again. Often these cures have been effected where the surroundings were not ideal, where no intelligent care was taken of the patient, where money was scarce; good food and good cooking unusual;—yet cures resulted.

Now we reiterate and urge that Eckman's Alternative should be used in every case of Tuberculosis, in addition to good, nourishing food, and fresh air, which we all need.

The facts—the evidence of cures that have been made—are interesting reading. A remarkable cure follows:

LOBSTER PRICE DROPS TO-DAY

The high cost of lobsters is due to drought. Two vessels, containing 238,000 pounds of lobsters were expected to-day from Nova Scotia. Local dealers, who have been paying upwards of 80 cents a pound wholesale, said that this big contingent would force the current price down to about 40 cents a pound.

Deputies from Portland today said that a single lobster was the market price with practically no supply. One dealer who had to have lobsters for a favored customer, paid $4 for four lobsters of indifferent size.

MR. SHENKER had made his first public speech. His subject was good-bye to the inequalities of industrial economy—and he hoped his treatment had been adequate. He was not sure. He waited for his wife's verdict, but she was strangely silent. She had been waiting in the gallery of the Town Hall, and he had half expected her to meet him at the door afterward, and say to him, as so many of them were out of town, "Good-bye, good-bye, Gid, Gid!" But they were slowly borne and she had said nothing of the kind.

"Well," he began, awkwardly, when he could bear it no longer. "What did you think?"

"What you said was all right," she answered, with guarded enthusiasm. "But it seemed to me that you didn't make the most of it."

"Opportunities!" repeated Mr. Shenker. "What do you mean, Ellie?"

"Way," Mrs. Shenker replied. "You had so many chances to sit down before THE CHAIR."

INFLAM- MATION AND PA

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Creston, Iowa.—"I was troubled for a long time with inflammation, pain in my side, sick headaches and nervousness. I had taken so many medicines that I was discouraged and thought I would never get well. A friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it restored me to health. I have no more pain, my nerves are stronger and I can do my own work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me of everything else had failed, and I recommend it to other suffering women."

Mrs. Wm. S. SALLS, 655 W. Howard st., Creston, Iowa.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from these distressing ills should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

In almost every neighborhood you will find women who have been restored to health by the Pinkham medicines. Ask them and see. If you would not have a testimonial published, but would talk about their cure to another woman.

Guilty Tax-Dodgers Must Be Punished—The Law of Criminal Conspiracy Set Forth

Boston will lose more if she permits those guilty Shaw executors to go unpunished than if she had never recovered a dollar of the vast sum which those men were obliged to disgorge and which now lies in the city treasury.

The evidence shows that these men conspired together to evade the law of the Commonwealth and to rob the city of nearly half a million dollars.

There appears to be sufficient evidence to bring these men within the reach of the CRIMINAL LAW. There is evidence enough to demand the disbarment of Welch and Herrick, who have violated their professional oaths and practiced deceit and have been guilty of CONDUCT UNBECOMING GOOD CITIZENS. The law is sufficient if those who have it in their keeping will act with determination.

It seems that the district attorney might bring all these men to the bar of justice for CRIMINAL CONSPIRACY, and the Bar Association might demand that the two lawyers among them be stripped of their professional offices as a warning to other lawyers not to prostitute their calling to the low purpose of evading and disobeying the law which they have solemnly sworn to uphold.

This is not a case where mercy should temper justice. It is a case where justice calls aloud for a just and impartial administration of the law.

It is a situation where the people are watching to learn whether the law which sent McCullough to jail for stealing $200 from the city, which he was not allowed to return, and disbarring his friend Cassidy and sent him to jail for helping McCullough, although he did not profit and did not expect to profit a cent by his action, which jailed Battis for sharing improperly the profits of a few trinkets sold to the city, which jailed Mitchell, the sum of whose flag-stone transaction was as compared to this huge tax theft, as a drop of water in a bucket, WILL DEAL AS SEVERELY WITH HERRICK, WELCH AND SHAW.

There is no angle from which this transaction can be viewed which makes it appear different from the offenses of Mitchell, McCullough, Cassidy and Battis, except that it involved a thousand times greater loss to the people of Boston.

The kind of thieving known as tax-dodging must be stopped and this is the time to begin.

Every man who pays taxes, every man who pays rent, every man who buys anything of men who pay rent, the landlord, the tenant, the store-keeper and those who buy from the store-keeper, are all robbed by rich tax-dodgers.

The commercial and industrial prosperity of Boston is being retarded by them. No appeal to the pride or patriotism of this class of men seems to avail anything.

Herrick had the UNBLUSHING EFFRONTERY during the last municipal campaign to participate actively in the assault upon Mayor Fitzgerald's former administration on account of the petty thefts of a few subordinates.

Nathan Matthews, A CONFIRMED TAX-DODGER, was arrested at Harvard as a municipal reformer and then proceeded to lead a reform campaign where the ghosts of a dozen Bannons rose and chased him off the field.

Men like Herrick, Welch and Shaw regret nothing but failure and they fear nothing but the CRIMINAL LAW.

They do not like a jail, where their tax-dodging gains can buy them no comforts. Make these men disclose their property under the penalty of perjury and a good, strong dose of jail will do more to cure tax-dodging than all the sermons on civic righteousness in a hundred years.

Herrick, Welch and Shaw appear to be GUILTY OF A CONSPIRACY when they did not return a true inventory of the Shaw estate, so far as they had knowledge of it, to the Probate Court within the time prescribed by law.

When two or more persons combine to do an unlawful thing it is CRIMINAL CONSPIRACY AT COMMON LAW. These men admit that they knew that they were not returning a true inventory of the estate when they filed the one in question.

The shabby trick by which they varied the form of the oath may have saved them from the penalty of perjury, but it does not affect the question of conspiracy.

All the addenda to the oath which their smart refinements led them to make, did not impair, in the least, their obligation under the law to return a true inventory of all the property of which they had knowledge.

They acted in concert to avoid obedience to this law, and that is the kind of combination which constitutes A CRIMINAL CONSPIRACY. There are no mitigating circumstances in this case. The Finance Commission, which could be in better business, offered some feeble excuses on their behalf. But these excuses only aggravate the offense.

It is suggested that they did not receive any larger fee for what they did.

But Cassidy had a better excuse. HE DID NOT RECEIVE ANY FEE AT ALL, and did not expect any. Yet Cassidy was disbarred and went to jail, notwithstanding his previous good character.

Moreover, it is not clear that these executors did not receive or expect personal profit from their act, even if it is true that their fees were not increased. Their profit might come to them in many other ways.

It is not to be supposed that intelligent men will risk the penalties of the law and public odium by attempting to rob their fellow citizens of half a million dollars, all for no personal advantage.

The Bar Association may not act against Welch and Herrick. Probably some members are on terms of personal friendship with these men and the Bar Association has come under the suspicion lately of devoting a great deal of attention to small fry.

BUT IF THE BAR ASSOCIATION DOES NOT ACT, SOME OTHER PERSONS WILL.

The Tax Commissioner says that one thousand million dollars is unjustly escaping taxation in this Commonwealth every year. This is putting a very heavy burden upon the average citizen and it will never be lifted until some of these guilty tax-dodgers are punished. To compel them to disgorge the stolen goods when they are caught is not sufficient.

Suppose that the police caught three burglars leaving a bank after they had blown open the safe and hidden away half a million dollars, and then entered into negotiations with them for the surrender of the money. Suppose the police said: "Give up your booty and we will let you go and will report to the people that you did a noble act by giving up the money when you might never have helped us to get it." Suppose that this method of dealing with crooks suddenly became general, how long before a carnival of crime would break out in this community?

If robbery involved no greater risk than the loss of the plunder, no man's property would be safe. It is because men in Welch's and Herrick's walk of life are allowed to go unpunished that the habit of doing these things has become so strong among them.

Any green they please,
So's they're at ease.
Watched 'em all the Winter,
Remark'd 'em standin' lonesome, like
Beggins in a row,
Drippin' ice and snow.
Hate to see 'em wavin'
Shiny naked arms;
Seems as if their dreams was bad.
Full of wicked harms,
Like a Devil's charms.
Doctor sez I'm better;

Nuthin' in the world to do
'Cept to set right here
Where the air is clear.
Tired of the coughin';

Only thing that cheers me up's
Knowin' that the trees
Won't be long like these.
What a pasky bizness
If we's never seen
Little buddin' sprouts come out

To 'wake up and dress themselves,

He Writes About A Spelling Contest

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

I FEEL awful sleepy to write this story to-day, because I was out very late with Pa & Ma. We went to see some folks who in just in town for two days, they are actor pupul & they have to get away as soon as they can. I said that actors had lots of trouble lots of times in getting away as soon as they can, & then they don't get it.
An' now, we want to see them, they are very nice people, they do a sketch in red-ink called Bluff & stuff, the great comedians, & Mister Bluff told us the subject we came into the house that he had had a left to a mummy, water that mummy, I don't like him very well, but my friend of Pa & Ma in a friend of mine, so I had to stand for his comedy.
You are a little young man, Bobbie, he said to me. Can you tell me three ways to spell Mister? Sure I can, I said. All right, said Mister Bluff. How do you spell the state by that name? M-A-N-I-S-E, I said. Correct, said Mister Bluff. Now how do you spell the word we are speaking about, the mummy, chaise, or selling the Spanish Mail? M-A-N-I-S-E, I said. Right as a whistle, Mister Bluff said. Now, kid, quick, how do you spell a horse's tail? M-A-N-I-S-E, I said. What, said Mister Bluff, do you call a horse's tail his name? Those I seen that I was being kidded, & I got mad. Pa always told me not to get mad, but I don't like to be kidded by a actor.
A Great Comedian
See here, kid, I said to Mister Bluff, you are a great comedian, ain't you? You are one (1) of the original boy comedians, are you not? I am, said Mister Bluff. All right, I said, then who is it that you are most on the road, you & your partner?
Bobbie! said Ma, you mustn't talk that way to people older than you. You have been better bring up, Ma, and, I am ashamed & disappointed in you. I don't call it a joke, if old people can make fun of young people young people has a right to make fun of them. This old stuff—
Not Another Word
Bobbie, said Ma, I don't want to hear another word out of you until we leave this house.
Let the kid talk, said Mister Bluff. I don't blame him for being a little bit angry after I kidded him up the way I did. Now see here, Bobbie, and Mister Bluff, I will give you a easy question, as that word mummy said if you don't answer it right. Tell me three ways to spell the word state. All right, I said, I will take one (1) more thing. The first way is the name of a church. A-B-E-L-E. The second way is the way to spell a hand in the ocean—that is L-S-L-E. Then I couldn't think of the third way, & Mister Bluff said Why, that is very stupid F.I.D. What do you know about this, boy?
Bobbie, said Ma, see here, I said, & I don't like you any too good, & what do you know about this? I don't think actors is so great that they can afford to make enemies, I said. The show business is pretty bad like this, & if you don't believe it—
Bobbie, said Ma, that will do. Well, I got home I got scared, but I don't call.

Yes! Yes! Go On!
